THURSDAY, February 20. SENATE—In the Senate this morning a arge attendance in the lobbies and the appearance of many ladies inside of the bar, pearance of many ladies inside of the bar, had the effect to bring up the new Temperance bill after a resolution was adopted authorizing a committee to investigate into the truth of the rumor that $250,000 has been raised to defeat the bill. After numerous dilatory motions and motions to amend, the operations and motions to amend, the previous question was sprung, and under the operations thereof, the bill [H: R. 327] was finally passed by yeas 30, nays 17, as follows:

Ayes—Messrs. Armstrong, Beardsley, Beeson, Boone, Brown, Bunyan, Chapman, Collett, Daggy, Daugherty, Dwiggins, Friedley of Scott, Friedley, of Lawrence, Hall, Harney, Haworth, Hough, Howard, Hubbard, Miller, Neff, O'Brien, Oliver, Orr, Rhodes, Ringo, Neff, O'Brien, Oliver, Orr, Rhodes, Ringo, Scott, Sleeth, Steele, and Taylor.—30.

Noes—Messrs. Beggs, Bird, Bowman, Carnahan, Cave, Dittemore, Fuller, Francisco, Glessner, Gooding, Gregg, Sarnighausen, Slater, Smith, Stroud, Thompson, Wadge, Williams, and Winterbotham.—19

Pending a motion to lay on the table, a motion to reconsider the vote passing the bill a little after one o'clock, the Senate took a recess till three o'clock.

Mr. Thompson of Elkhart's bill to change the time of the Trustees' tax levies from March to June was passed the final reading; also, the bill for the application of certain city fines and forfeitures for the benefit of homes for friendless was finally passed the House; also an appropriation of $62 500 toward the current expenses for the part two years of House of penses for the next two years of House of Refuge for boys at Plainfield; and the de-bate this morning gave good promise of an appropropriation of $10,000 toward the be-ginning of a State Sanitarium for drunkards.

Horrible Murders at Calcutta.

A horrible wholesale murder is reported from Calcutta. It appears that on Friday week (says the Bombay Gazette of the 30th ult.) a native of the Dossad caste, armed with a massive chopper, sharpened on both sides, and two knives, set out of his house with the intention of murdering his wife and his seen in law between whom as alleged by the intention of murdering his wife and his son-in-law, between whom, as alleged by him, an improper intimacy existed. Not finding them where he expected they would be, he attacked his daughter, who happened first to come in his way. With a stroke of the chopper he knocked her scalp clean off, so that the whole of her brain was visible. She immediately expired. In murdering her he is reported to have said that had she not been born, and had she not married the man, his wife would not have been estranged from him. He next attacked an old woman committee, and the belief is strengthening into a certainty that there will be no danger of the Dossad caste and dispatched her in a similar manner. Finding then his mother in the way he dealt a blow on her head, and she fell down apparently dead. He stated to the police that he struck her because he wished to save her the grief which would overtake her on his meeting, with his deserved punishment. She is in a very precarious state, and no Lopes are entertained of her recovery. He next attacked a woman of the Dhobi caste, inflicting a severe blow on the head. She is also in a very precarious state and not expected to survive. He then attacked a young woman of the Kahar caste, whom he also seriously wounded on the head, her injuries consisting of several cuts. She is in a precurious condition. After attacking seven other persons, all of whom he wounded more or less seriously, he was captured by an inspector of police.

Committee, and the belief is strengthening into a certainty that there will be no danger of the expulsion of Ames, Brooks or any one else. This feeling is not confined to party, but is general. The vendict continues to be that the report is too harsh for some and too mild for others.

Oakes Ames said to day that, from what he had seen, a resolution to expel the Poland Committee would get more votes than their resolution. Speeches are being prepared for Tuesday next, particularly on the Democratic side.

It is reported to night that Fernando Wood will, to-morrow, offer a resolution directing the Committee on the Judiciary to bring in articles of impeachment against Vice President Colfax, but of course no such committee this morning examined G. A. Bassett, Clerk of the Committee. He denied were receiving anything officially for consideration.

Fernando Wood has prepared and will offer a resolution direction direction of the committee of the committee.

It is stated that there are reasons for believing indictments will be received by the presented by the presen presented by them against Tweed, Hall and Connelly for misdemeanors committed by them in the discharge of their official duties as members of the Board of Audit. The new indictments have been very carefully drawn and will preclude the possibility of egal evasion.

The final arrangements for the compromi The final arrangements for the compromise of the government suit against Phelps, Dodge & Co. were made yesterday at the office of Special Treasury Agent Jayne, at the Custom House. Ex-Judge Fullerton and ex-Surveyor Abram Wakeman took a prominent part in arranging the terms of settlement. The proceedings are very private, and the officers are pledged not to reveal the details of the compromise, which stipulates that Phelps, Dodge & Co. confess judgment in the sum of $271,000. It is understood that this is nearly a quarter of a million less that this is nearly a quarter of a million less than the Secretary of the Treasury was re-cently advised to accept. The suddenness of Father Burke's return to Europe causes considerable disappointment among the Irish and Catholic element of our population, who were anxious to pre-pare a suitable demonstration. There will be presented him a splendid portrait of him-self. Although little time is left for prepara-tion it is determined to make the demonstration a memorable one.

Burke's own feelings, however, suggested that as he came quietly and unannounced he should also go away without notice, and in consequence his recall to Rome was hardly in consequence his recall to Rome was hardly known until his arrival here on Monday. His people, however, have arranged that some address be presented him and a deputation of citizens of Brooklyn and another representing New York will convey the steamer City of Paris to Sandy Hook.

If he wants the innocence, he has the weak-ness of a child, but of a child too old or too imbecile to learn. The pity we feel for him is akin to that which we feel for partial idiocy. It is provoking, and one's hands almost itch to inflict deserved punishment, but there is so much of insanity in the committal of the fault that puty for him who persists in committing it is the pre-dominating feeling. As to argument ar explanation, Mr. Colfax's case, like Mr. Patterson's, is past all that. It does not in the least matter what he says. He may have a new story for every day, and a new version for that story every hour. In vain. What he says is not of the slightest moment. To the Editor of The Evening News:

In your yesterday's edition of The News you did me injustice, probably unintentional. You say "those who subscribed were treated handsomely, while those who declined to patronize the work were made to feel the weight of Mr. Edmunds's displeasure." This is not true. Many of those "treated handsomely" never paid me a dime, some of them were not even given an opportunity. I refer, without permission to Judge Glessner, Lucius Hubbard, A. C. Millett, E. D. Glazebrook, Senator Taylor, James M. Wynn, Joseph Henderson and others. Some of these are short sketches, but I used all the material I had at my command. Out of 86 sketches now published, about thirty have given me no patronage to my knowledge, and only one no patronage to my knowledge, and only one of these sketches is really objectionable or unfair. And, further, out of the whole number of sketches, not one of the parties have ever paid a dime in consideration of the pub-lication of a sketch, and not one of those who have "felt the weight of Mr. Edmund's who have "felt the weight of Mr. Edmund's displeasure" was ever asked for patronage. I know that newspaper puffs are cheap, but a "puff can not be purchased in The Life-Boat for love or money. But what is the offence with which I am charged? Please read the catalogue: "A native Hoosier;" this is probably a criminal offence. "An oratorical failure" and "feeling his importance;" how serious my offence. How righteous the superlative indignation of the troubled Representatives, and how virtuous their paid newspaper defenders." But I am accused of calling Mr. Schmuck a "Dutchman." This is a mistake. The following is an exact copy of what I did say:
"Gabriel Schmuck is a German by birth

In conclusion, the life boat is a fixed institution, not easily foundered in legislative froth and foam. As for myself, I am a correspondent and agent of a legitimate magazine that is not in this business of puffing at a penny a line. My salary is three thousand dollars a year, and I can probably manage to live on that amount without black-malling, which appears to be a familiar subject to a part of the Indianapolis press.

THE proper ventilation of school rooms is a question now being agitated in eastern cities, and one that might be agitated with profit in every quarter of the Union. A short time since the writer of this had occasion to call on a lady teacher, at her school room, and found it smelling like an emigrant car, and strongly suggestive of typhus fever and other deadly diseases. Being accustomed to it, neither teachers nor scholars could smell the stench of the foul air, but to an unacclimated person it was insufferable.

THE Board of Trustees of Vassar Colege have issued a solemn ukase, prohibiting the five hundred lady students from wearing collars and cuffs. Is the Board composed of savages or asses? There is nothing that finishes up or sets off to better advantage a feminine throat than a bit of dainty white collar, and it matters little whether it be royal lace or plain linen. A man without a shirt is in no more unfinished state than a woman without a collar. If the Faculty had launched their bull against tight lacing, or the mountains of false hair, there would have been some sense in it; but they must be a precious set of brutes, to make war on cuffs and collars. Each member of the Board should have a cuff on the ears from the five hundred pairs of outraged hands at Vassar.

The Laborer is Worthy of His Hire. We had not thought it possible for a Legislature that has voted to increase its own salary so freely to hesitate upon giving proper pay to other officials. The bill for the increase of salary of the Judges of the Supreme, Circuit, Superior and Common Pleas is still, however, on the files in a very unsatisfactory condition. We had supposed the people had begun to appreciate the folly and expense of an illpaid judiciary. It can not be expected that capable men will always be found willing to serve in such places unless they are sufficiently paid. So far as the party in power is pledged to anything, it stands pledged to remedy this evil. The last election called to the bench some of the best talent in the State. Whenever the subject of salary was raised it was always said that the Judges should be fairly paid. and that the Legislature at its first meeting would fix a fair salary to the office. When the Legislature met, a bill was early introduced looking to a fair salary to the Judges. It has halted at every step until now it seems to be among the most doubtful hills on the files.

We wish the Legislature would think of this question as it deserves. The State is not paying anything like a fair return for the labor required of the Judges of the various Courts. They are not half paid Such economy is costly and disgraceful. That the State has been fortunate enough to secure many good men at the present that it has obtained some very weak and under Kolokrotonis at the battle of Trikorinefficient men. It has no reason or right pha, and afterward at Monembasia. to expect in any instance first-class talent without paying for it. The people of the whole State are interested in this question. There is no politics or partisanship in the measure. It is one of simple honesty and good common sense. Every county blessed by the services of a competent Judge-Circuit or Common Pleas -might well afford to pay from its treas-Gry three times his present salary. This county, for instance, could better afford to pay such a Judge as Newcomb ten thousand dollars a year than to let him leave the Bench and have his place filled by one who would simply work enough to earn his meagre salary. The people need the services of such men and can afford to, and gladly will, pay them reasonable

The subject needs no elaboration. Every man in business knows the Salary bill should pass. The Representatives and Senators know the people demand its passage. If it fails it will be because less important interests take precedence, and because neither House will do its duty. We call upon the Members from Marion to give this matter proper attention at full value of the land. once.

We have got foo much in the babit of taking our politicians on their own valuation. A fair outside, plausible protessions, activity in religious or re formatory work,—we have accepted these in lieu of soldier guarantees, and naw we are paying the penalty for it. We must cure ourselves of this habit. We must begin to look behind professions at character—behind the Christian statesman at the man. We must learn also to sink the partisan in the critical employer who wants his work done, and done well and done honestly. Political and done well, and done honestly. Political soundness is all very fine and desirable in its way; but it is not everything—it is not even the main thing. A man may agree with us perfectly in politics and yet be a ras cal; another man may disagree with us ut-terly and yet be a very capable and upright public servant. The hood doesn't make the monk now any more than it did in the day of stout Ulric Von Hutten; a man may pose himself on stump and platform as a Republican of the Republicans and still have the true Tammany itch in his fingers. Touching Pluck and Generosity.

[Letter to the Chicago Tribune.]

A New Jersey law requires all railroads passing through that State to furnish members of the Legislature, and judicial and State officers, with free passes over them annually. This year, the Erie road sent legislative passes, good only during the time the Legislature is in session. To the members of both the New Jersey and New York Legislatures. As it has been customary heretofore to send annual passes to both Legislatures, the honorable gentlemen took this curtailment of their free rides in high dudgeon, and most of the members of the New York Legislature returned these bits of pasteboard, with the curt information that a legislature, with the curt information that a legislature. York Legislature returned these bits of paste-board, with the curt information that a leg-islative pass was of no use, as they had no leisure for free rides on the Erie road while engaged in the arduous duty of law-making. The New Jersey legislators did not, however, take the matter so coolly. Having law on their side, they, in a body, in-dignantly refused their passes as an insult, and instructed the Clerk to send them back forthwith. And while they virture is disforthwith. And, while their virtuous indig-nation was at a white heat, a bill was intro forthwith. And, while their virtuous indignation was at a white heat, a bill was introduced and put upon its passage, taxing all property in the State of New Jersey belonging to the Eric Railway Company, which, by virtue of free passes and special enactment, has heretofore been exempted from taxation. The result of this little "tempest in a teapot" is, that annual complimentary passes have been furnished, as in former years, and that everything is again serene at Trenton. But doesn't this small farce look as if there was a diminutive African in the woodpile? If the New Jersey Legislature exempts property belonging to the Eric Railway Company illegally from taxation, has it been bribed to do so; and will it continue to do so if further bribed? If not, why make such a fuss about nothing? Or, if the Eric Road has received no favors from the Legislature of New Jersey, and expects none, why stultify itself by sending annual passes after inciting such a row? Such singular legislation by a State, followed by such gushing generosity by a railroad, is worthy of note.

The Haunted School House.

[From the Hartford Times.]

[From the Hartford Times.]

We are able to lay before our readers these interesting extracts from a letter written by Miss Lucy A. Perkins, teacher at the haunted school house in Newburyport, in answer to inquiries concerning an account of the aftair published in a newspaper:

The account you send me is true with a few exceptions. When I first saw the boy he was neatly attired in a brown suit of clothes, trimmed with braid and buttons of the same color. When I reached forward to grasp him he seemed not like the boy, but vapory, or, as I can describe it, like a thin cloud scudding across the room; still he seemed to have the boy form. Reports trees. vapory, or, as I can describe it, like a thin cloud soudding across the room; still he seemed to have the boy form. Reports from some of the Boston papers say I fainted; such is not the case. I knew where Iwas and what I was about just as well as I know I am writing * * One day I sent a boy out to hang up the brushes, etc. He was out about five minutes. After he had taken his seat, three raps came on the door of the room where the brushes were hung. He said, "Miss Perkins, can I go out and see who's there?" I told him, "Yes and leave the there?" I told him, "Yes and leave the school room door open." He did so, and when he opened the brush room door (I sat where I could see all this) every one of the brushes, both long and short-handled, came falling off the nails where they were hung; me struck him in the face, some on the shoulders, and the broom directly on the top of his head. The dust pan, hanging on a nail at some distance above the brushes. came tumbling down to the floor with a vengeance. It then stood on its handles, then on the bottom edge, and continued on so until it entered the school room, and then it was placed as nicely against the partition as if I had done it myself. Just as soon as I'd raise the ventilator a black ball like a cannon ball would begin to roll around the attic, and make such a noise I would be obligd to and make such a noise I would be obligd to lower the ventilator. One day the room was as quietas it could possibly be, and all at once some one in the attic called out, "Dadie Pike!" Dadie thought I spoke, and said, "What ma'am." I said to him, "Can you say your lesson?" Since the boy affair took place the attic has been fastened up. took place the attic has been fastened up. Locks and Keys are of no use, however, for there is just as much walking up stairs, and sometimes the hammering and nailing. Once in a while sounds as of some one walking will come down the attic way, go across the entry and open the outside door, and be gone perhaps ten minutes. After it is quiet again the door will open, and he, she, or it will go up stairs.  I am not a Spiritualist; never attended a sitting, in fact never had anything to do with persons of that be-

A Full Fledged Mouse.

[St. Louis Republican.] There is on exhibition at the St. Louis Fair museum, on Fifth and Olive, a remarkable natural curiosity. It is a drued mouse, with long, white, glossy feathers projecting from its body. There is no reason to suspect any deception in the case. The dead mouse had been cut out of a bed-tick, it being too hard a substance for the converse of the head to a substance for the occupier of the bed to rest on. It was then found that the feathers had taken root in the animal's body and given rise to a crop of feathers. It is well known that the hair continues to grow on the bodies of deed provens some time. known that the hair continues to grow on the bodies of dead persons some time after their demise, but whether this case bears any anology to such circumstances is not decided. The curiosity is in charge of Prof. Tracey at the Fair museum, and he has placed it in a small glass case. It was carefully inspected by a number of gentlemen yesterday, and afforded a theme for much curious speculation.

The Pope on Napoleon.

Some of the Catholic papers in this country have been declaring indignantly against any "Ricking of the dead lion," Napoleon III; yet the Pope, receiving a large deputation of Germans, the other day, alluding to the deceased Emperor Napoleon, said that those who avail themselves of the gifts of God to oppress and despoil the Church, must end their days miserably and in remorse. These, and similar words, were enthusiastically cheered. The Pope on Napoleon,

The Masonic Hall was comfortably filled last evening on the occasion of the fourth nd last lecture of Professor Morse, who cetion in Zoology," and the happy manner in which the speaker handled his subject made it both interesting and instructive to all present. After some introductory re-marks on the laws of classification in zoology and illustrating the same, the lecturer pr ded to show by the use of the crayon how different orders of living creatures were ad or resembled each other.

The higher orders, such as birds and even man, show the same gradations. A compar-non was then made between the monkey and man, and many points of resemblance ad-duced. In conclusion the speaker stated that it was the 'ntellect of man which raises him above the leower animals, and above the less forward zees of his order.

A Funny Breach of Promise Suit. [From the Springfield Republican 1

J. H. Lucas, the Middletown, Conn., man who felt himself aggrieved because Mrs. Sarah Markham married another fellow, and wanted the Court to give him some $600 wanted the Court to give him some $600 which he had spent upon her during their courtship of five years, has not only lost his case, but must pay the costs of the trial, making his total expenditures in behalf of the girl he didn't marry some $1,000. Among the items were carriage hire for drives, admittance to entertainments, presents of jewelry and dresses, and labor in cutting bean-poles, gardening and making hay. Lucas, according to his own story, was a very bean-poles, gardening and making hay. Lucas, according to his own story, was a very handy fellow about the house; during all these five years he assisted in plowing, fixing fences, and doing innumerable jobs, all in the expectation of the extreme felicity of one day having the widow all to himself. She admits his having made hay, but says he was paid for it; says he did some hoeing occasionally, though none by her asking; but occasionally, though none by her asking; but declares that he never repaired fences, cut bean-poles, or did any such work. He bought a dress but she refused it, and finally he sold it to her mother for $4. When the widow finally refused him, Lucas pulled out his seven-shooter and threatened to end his griefs in death, but afterward concluded to see whether the Courts would protect a fel-low against the wiles of "vidders."

History of the Innocents. [St. Louis Globe's N. Y. Letter.]

The private history of his "Innocents" is a repetition of many other works which had become famous. He offered the manuscript to half a dozen houses, and every one of them declined it. He was then introduced through a literary friend to the American Publishing Company of Hartford, and he left his copy with them for several months before they came to any decision. Most of the stockholders were opposed to taking it, but the Secretary, reading it carefully, found lishing it, and finally carried his associates with him. The result is well known. Hardly any book of the time has been in greater demand, and it is altogether probable that a quarter of a faillion copies will eventually be disposed of. it so very funny that he was bent on pub-the disposed of.

How any one could have glanced over the pages of the "Innocents" without being struck at once by their laughter-provoking quality, is hardly to be understood. Nobody but a publisher could have done so. Humor of any sort is always taking; can be readily turned into dollars and cents. There might be grave doubts touching a poem, novel or philosophic treatise, excellent though its character; but that an irresistibly comic manuscript like Twain's should go begging is almost beyond belief. almost beyond belief.

Dishonest Indignation.

[New York correspondence St. Louis Globe.] Talking with a hotel-keeper the other day, I remarked that, in a large city like this, he must lose a good deal by transient customers, must lose a good deal by transient customers, who would go away and forget to pay their bills. He replied, "Oh, no, I never lose much by folks of that sort. I have made it a rule in my house, whenever a man wants a room and has no baggage, to demand pay in advance, as is usual. If he manifests no objection, and puts his hand into his pocket for money, I tell him it is all right; that he can pay just as well when he goes away. can pay just as well when he goes away. That kind of man always pays.

But there is another sort of fellow who, when informed of the rule, pretends to be very indignant, insisting that he is a gentle-- and is not in the ing his name questioned or his honesty doubted. In such case, I invariably insist on the production of the neumisenatics, for I know if I don't get them then I never should get them in the world. Men who talk about their nonor, and assume to be insulted when requested to pay, can be de-pended on for first-class dead-beats,"

Chalking the Hat.

The origin of "chalking the hat" was due to Admiral Reeside, in the days when Con-gressmen went lumbering over the distant States in stage coaches. At the annual adwould pass his friends of the two houses over his stage lines after the following fashion: "Mr. C., I suppose you are going back to Lexington? I will pass you through on my coaches." "All right; but how will your agents along the road know the fast?" agents along the road know this fact?"
"Just give me your hat." Upon the tile being passed over, this Napoleon of the stage, taking a piece of chalk from his pocket, would dash off in brilliant white upon the back ground a peculiar hyeroglyphic, impos sible to counterfeit, and hand it back to the owner with the remark: "Just show that to my agents along the route."

She shou'd be a Policemwoman.

On the first floor of 53 Orchard street is a bakery, the proprietor of which has been ac-customed to keep from $200 to $300 in his money drawers over night. On Friday night the housekeeper, a German lady, named Mra Lawrence, discovered a thief (a strapping big fellow, nearly six feet tall.) attempting to effect an entrance into the above mentioned shop by means of a rear window. The fellow had pryed off the window fastening and partially raised the window, when he was discovered by Mrs. Lawrence, who not only seized and held him until the arrival of the police, but also took from him a huge chisely and an ugly looking knife, an operation to which he submitted with lamblike resigna-tion. Mrs. L. is about six feeet tall, very muscular, and weighs two hundred and fifty pounds, and the neighbors think the thief didn't show any great degree of cowardice after all, in submitting to be captured by the female.-[N. Effect of the Grant of Stay of Proceed ings in the Stokes Case. The question is everywhere asked, in what way is the Davis decision in the Stokes case to operate as a bar to its final adjudication? to operate as a bar to its final adjudication? The case now goes to General Term or full bench of the Supreme Court, where it is passed in review on the bill of exceptions. Should the rulings of the Judge in the lower court be sustained, the counsel for the prisoner has the right, and of course will take advantage of it, to carry the case up to the Court of Appeals, the decision of which is final. The General Term meets in this city in March, but the argument, through various legal resorts on the part of the defense, may be delayed for some time. By some good be delayed for some time By some good judges it is asserted that Stokes is safe for wo years longer. He will be removed ww days to the comforts of his old cell.

WEBKLY NEWS

FOR 1873.

The year 1873, following as it does an important Presidential election, will be of unusual interest. and every man owes it to himself and his country to keep thoroughly acquainted with the progress of urrent events. He needs to be informed in regard to the great questions at issue, and for such infor mation he must look not to a party paper. that tells only what is favorable to its own side, and sappresses anything and everything it fears mayin the least injure its party, no matter how full of moment it may be, but to an independent journa). Such's paper is THE WEEKLY NEWS, which sims to tell the truth fairly and without favor.

IT IS ALLIED TO NO PARTY.

And is fed upon no public pap, and is always free to express its convictions of right and duty. During the past year it has discussed political questions with ability and honesty, has criticised men and measures when it thought criticism deserved, and has commonded them when they deserved praise.

ITS PAST IS A GUARANTEE OF ITS FUTURE.

THE WEEKLY NEWS will, as heretofore, contain interesting miscellaneous reading for all classes. For the farmer it will have a large quantity of interesting matter. For the Wives and Daughters, interesting stories, etc., and its

A CORRESPONDENT informs us that we made an ass of ourself in a recent paragraph on As we go east or west from Pennsylvania cerebro spinal meningitis. He says that while "quax" fail in their treatment, intelligent "fisitions" cure it as easily as rolling off a log. We are glad to hear it.

THE establishment of a school for unruly pupils having been determined upon by the School Board, Superintendent Shortridge's list of teachers is curiously looked for. Will they have to pass an approved examination on Larupathy, and illustrate their degree of pertection by practical example, before a board of expert judges of muscle and corporeal punishment?

The New State House. The Board recently appointed to conside the grounds in case a new State House is built, met yesterday at the Governor's rooms. and had under consideration the plan re-commending the removal of the Blind Asylum from its present location to the vicinity of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, and to locate the proposed State House on those grounds, which are owned by the State. The project is thought to be feasible in case the lots north of the present State House can not be bought at a fair price. The expense of removing the Blind Asylum would not be as heavy as would otherwise be the case, and the Board will doubtless recom mend this plan.

Col. Ray to be Called to Account. Senator Wadge this forenoon introduced resolution in the Senate setting out in substance that in a public meeting held Sunday last Col. Ray remarked that $250,000 hadbeen raised in the State to defeat the Temperance bill in the Senate,-he intimated that any member voting against its provisions would be liable to the accusation of having received part of that fund, and ended by moving the appointment of a committee ation. The resolution was regarded at first as a mere skirmish dodge to avoid final issue upon the bill which the temper were pressing, and it elicited ce people were pressing, and Senstor Brown claimed that Col. Ray was insane upon any subject which he enthusiastically advocated, and that had a com-mission of lunacy happened in at the Academy at the time he was making his speech. he would have been condemned on the spot. or three other interests which have not yet. INDIANAPOLIS. The condition To-day and the Prospect for the Future.

shadowed cities, jealous of the growing rigor and thrifty enterprise of India are setting up a cry that the rapid advance in real estate for three months past is due more to feverish or wildcat speculation than permanent growth, and for the satisfaction of these doubting Thomases, as well as to cool the blood of the few who may have staked their last cent on the rise of a corner lot, a representative of The News has been to some trouble in interviewing the leading real estate, as well as business men, and from them has deduced an "average" warranting the following general statements.

"wild cat" speculation, not so much that, either, as it is a premature advance which in of in the unexpected yet material and permanent growth of what may be called the city proper, and which has extended to nearly one mile outside of the corporation Kids, in all shades, at popular prices lines, especially in the northeast, east and southeast. That Indianapolis will cover all the platted territory, and reach out far more is predicted on the following reasons by a shrewd observer. Statistics show beyond doubt that our citizens are just beginning to see what an inevitable great future there is before them. There are three things which demonstrate this: First increase of population, equal to at least ten per cent. annually on the present estimate of 60,000, which gives 6,000; second, that of capital, and, third, manufacturing interests. A little calculation on the first shows that if 6,000 are added to the population during 1873, it gives a ratio of 60,000 in ten years, twice the size now attained. Cut this down to 40,000, which is low enough surely. It is fair to average five persons to each residence, 200 residences to every 1,000, and 2,000 to every ten or even fifteen thousand people, which will have to be built to accommodate this increase of population. There is to-day hardly a respectable tenement in the city that is for rent, the demand can not be supplied no matter how rapidly they are constructed, nor how numerous. the cry for something to live in continues unabated. Two thousand houses will occupy a large space of territory, for the majority will be built on forty foot front lots. and many will take up much larger space. Let the suspicious or timid person take this calculation, instead of two thousand residences within the next decade increase the number to eight or nine thousand, estimate from twelve to eighteen to every square, and he will then see what an immense stretch of territory will yet be required to accomdate the future of Indianapolis, a territory that will exhaust all that is platted now and all that will be for a year to come.

A good index of the confidence citizens are beginning to feel in the future of Indianapolis is the firmness with which property owners hold on to their improved real estate. of the better class of which very little is now on the market at any price. Washington street, between Pennsylvania and Illinois, is the center of real estate value, and will average $1,750 per front foot, although considerable of it can not be bought for $2,000. Mr. Hubbard is understood to have refused this figure for the block corner Washington and Meridian, which he will commence to tear away on the first of the coming month in order to build a more imposing and costly structure.

In November last the Brouse block, be tween Delaware and Pennsylvania, was sold to Judge Roache at the rate of about $1,100 per foot front, but the same could hardly be purchased at present for an advance of $600. and Illinois real estate decreases in proportion. Three squares north of Washington, on Pennsylvania, residence valuation reaches its highest figure, and opposite University Square is quoted at $350 per foot front. Meridian is not quite so valuable, owing it is said to the disfiguration caused by Circle Park. North of Second rates are given as follows: Meridian, $100 per foot front; Pennsylvania, $85; Delaware, $90; Alabama, $70; New Jersey, $40; Illinois, $90, and Tennessee, $70. These are cited as average quotations, neither high nor low, and as well known the prices are governed by condition and location of lot, etc. Real estate near the Northwestern Christian University is considered first class investment, and on College avenue as high as $60 per foot front has been given. On account of the street railway and additional width of the street Christian avenue lots command $20 more per foot than similar property on Cherry. Tinker street runs well, $75 being quoted, and from that to Camp Morton the general average is about $40, it mattering but little how far east one goes.

East of the city the houses have spread until they have reached beyond Arsenal Heights, and the platted ground runs nearly a mile beyond. The rise in land has been great, fortunate to everybody having title thereto, and as an incident is the 10-acre lots platted by Vajen less than a year ago, and sold at $250 per acre. Two lots were bought by Gov. Baker for $5,000, and sold not lone since to a third party for $16,000, and yesterday or the day before the purchase was taken off his hands at an advance of $4,000.

Northwest, in the direction of Crown Hill the past twelve months has witnessed rapid building progress, and dwellings are lining the way clear to Fall Creek. Some days ago Dr. Allen purchased the Hetselgesser farm, 119 acres, for $60,000; Mrs. Harrison sold to Hubbard 40 acres at $40,000, and Vajen 90 Albert E. Fletcher's Oak Hill, Hanway & acres to Cleveland & Smock for $36,000. Ne- Hanna's First and Second Oak Hill, Sar gotiations are being made for the Armstrong farm, lying immediately west of Crown Hill Cemetery, but there is no announced result up to the present time. Out there the advance is not speculative so much after all, for the establishment of a large wooden-ware factory on Dr. Allen's purchase, besides two steads thereon. It has not been eighteen months since the ground outside of the old corporation line on the Shelbyville pike and Michigan road were laid out in town lots, and to-day is found improved town property stretching fully one and a half miles from the Court house. Some transactions on a It is admitted that there is a little existing iarge scale in these neighborhoods, for instance the resale of the Lingenfelter farm, the future is certain to be reached, but which was purchased by Woods a short time which for several years to come the city will ago for $18,000 and sold for $30,000; the hardly come up to. This, however, is lost sight | picking up of the Batty, farm at $1,250 per acre, and the offer of $300,000 for the Canby farm by eastern parties, which will probably be accepted to-day, indicate permanency, be cause they are on the immediate line of residence improvement, although some distance out

Some days ago The News spoke of the improvements over in Indianola contemplated by the I. and St. L. Railway Company, which, coupled with the building of the elevator, etc., has given a great impetus to real estate valuation, and from certain indications the next half decade will witness "Stringtown" of old grown into a leading manufacturing suburb. Thirty acres immediately west of Indianola proper, and fronting on the National road, changed hands the other day at the rate of $1,000 per acre, and several other "dickers" are reported at a considerable advance on this figure. If the city carries out the project of locating soap factories, etc., on the Sellers farm, it will be the signal for material building improvements north of Third street and west of the canal, as well as the sections bordering on the river south of Kentucky avenue and west of West street. And thus the position appears to-day: whether in growth of population, increase of capital or multiplicity of manufacturing interests, the advance has been unprecedented, and carries with it every indication of permanency. A great proportion of purchases for the past fifteen days has been made by outside parties, who bring with them capital and business influence, and not a day but what new parties are presenting themselves either in person or by representative with the openly expressed intention of making Indianapolis their future home. Real estate interests is not the only thing that has received a wonderful impetus, for the same is remarkably true of the wholesale and retail trade, and our merchants re-port an exceedingly satisfactory condition of things. The manufactories are crowded to their utmost capacity, all branches of me-chanical labor are in good demand, and in the aggregate everybody is prospering. Whether one turns toward Crown Hill, or Camp Morton, Johnson's farm, the Car Works, Woodruff Place, Brightwood, Irvington, Brookside suburbs, Hendricks's old homestead grounds, McCarty's addition, Mc-Kernansville, Indianola—east, west, north or south, or in the center, the same brilliant progress marks the view; for that reason, hurrs for the present, and three times three for the inevitable future of Indianapolis.
